

Group language training for team members

Improve the effectiveness of your international team with a 40-hour Business English programme

Our Team Course gives colleagues who work for the same company or organisation the opportunity to improve their English communication skills within their international team. By training together as a group, you'll be able to share experiences and learn from each other – and gain valuable insights into the impact your English has on fellow team members.

Each 'closed' group will consist of a maximum of four people, who may be from the same office/location or may include a mix of colleagues from a company's overseas offices. Learning together will help participants better understand cultural and behavioural differences and how to deal with – and avoid – familiar challenges, mistakes and communication problems that commonly arise in multinational teams.

The benefits of a Team Course

Learn Business English with your colleagues and fellow team members in groups of up to four people

A Team Course allows you to develop your English skills with others and provides outstanding team building and communication benefits. The group activities are highly interactive and consist of exercises, discussions and simulations (such as meetings, negotiations and conference calls) that mirror the real-life experiences you encounter on a regular basis in your workplace.

Group members from the same team/country or from different nationalities are encouraged to share their knowledge, expertise and experience. In this way, the group sessions provide the opportunity to increase cultural understanding, build team communication and develop essential business skills such as conducting a meeting or sharing information over the phone.

You will also benefit from additional English-speaking time with your host family in the mornings and evenings and during a range of social activities, as well as the contact time with trainers during breaks, lunchtimes and evening activities.

To get the best out of a Team Course, participants would normally be at a B1 level in English or above.

We provide a relaxed and supportive learning environment where you will be encouraged to speak English immediately, both within the training setting and after-hours. Our activities are designed to help you use language spontaneously and to communicate confidently and with authority.

Our intensive immersion programmes are often seen as complementary to other learning methods and are frequently undertaken as part of a 'blended' learning package, perhaps involving online training or study in your home country.
